Legislative Tax Changes

The 2005 Legislature made several changes to taxes and programs administered by the Department of Revenue. This publication provides a brief summary of some of the bills affecting excise taxes that were signed into law. If you believe that a bill may affect you or your business, please refer to the bill at: <http://www.leg.wa.gov/wsladm/billinfo1/bills.cfm> or contact the Department.

* Agricultural burning – 2SSB 5663 (Chapter 420, Laws of 2005) narrows the tax incentives for machinery and equipment used to reduce agricultural burning of cereal grain and grass fields. The sales tax and use tax exemptions apply only to specific items listed in the bill. Materials, labor, and services for the construction of hay sheds for qualified farmers are also exempt. The bill eliminates the B&O tax credit for costs expended to acquire qualifying machinery and equipment. It also eliminates the property tax exemption on qualifying machinery and equipment. Effective July 1, 2005.

Alternative fuel autos – 2SSB 5916 (Chapter 296, Laws of 2005) provides sales tax and use tax exemptions on the sale or use of new autos that are exclusively powered by natural gas, propane, hydrogen, or electricity.  Extended warranties – ESHB 2314 (Chapter 514, Laws of 2005) expands the definition of retail sale to include the sale of an extended warranty to a consumer. It is a wholesale sale if sold for resale. An extended warranty is defined as an agreement for a specified duration to replace or repair tangible personal property at no additional charge or at a reduced charge, or to provide indemnification for the replacement or repair of tangible personal property, based on the occurrence of specified events. Effective July 1, 2005.

 Fruit & vegetable processing – ESHB 2221 (Chapter 513, Laws of 2005) provides a B&O tax exemption for persons that manufacture fresh fruit and vegetables by canning, freezing, processing, or dehydrating and selling such products on a wholesale basis for transport out-of-state. Such income is currently subject to the B&O tax at the rate of 0.138 percent. Persons claiming this exemption must file an Annual Report. The bill also provides tax incentives for persons in the fruit and vegetable processing industry that do not become effective until July 1, 2007. The Department will publish detailed information about these incentives as the effective date approaches. Effective July 1, 2005.

 High technology B&O tax credit – ESHB 2314 (Chapter 514, Laws of 2005) changes the method used to calculate the high technology B&O tax credit. "Tobacco products" means all tobacco products, except cigarettes. Effective July 1, 2005.

Processing Perishable Meat Products

Washington law (RCW 82.04.260) provides a "preferential" B&O tax rate for every person engaging within this state in the business of "slaughtering, breaking, and/or processing" perishable meat products and/or selling these products at wholesale (referred to as the "slaughter/breaking" B&O tax classification). On January 13, 2005, the Washington State Supreme Court ruled in the Agrilink case that the slaughter/breaking rate is available to a processor of perishable meat where the person produces canned products if the person starts with a perishable meat product. There is no requirement that the finished product remain perishable after processing.

As a result of this court decision, persons processing perishable meat into a nonperishable finished product may qualify for this preferential B&O tax rate.

A Special Notice will be issued with instructions on how to report the income and how to request a refund for any overpaid amounts.

Taxability for Internet businesses

With more businesses making sales or providing services via the Internet, we're often asked how excise taxes apply to such businesses. The following discussion provides the tax application for Internet businesses located in Washington, as well as for Internet businesses located outside of Washington.

1 Internet-based businesses located in Washington

Washington businesses that sell tangible personal property or provide services over the Internet are taxable in the same manner as any "brick and mortar" business located in Washington.

Items delivered in Washington

Washington sales tax must be collected on all sales delivered to customers/end users in Washington. Income from such sales is also subject to retailing business and occupation (B&O) tax.

Items delivered outside of Washington

When the seller delivers an item to the buyer at a location outside of Washington, the sale is considered an interstate or foreign sale and is not subject to Washington sales tax. The sale is also deductible from retailing B&O tax. See WAC 458-20-193(4) for information on documenting out-of-state delivery.

Services performed in Washington

Many Internet businesses provide or perform services rather than sell tangible personal property, for instance, web design or consulting services. Income earned from providing services over the Internet is generally subject to service and other activities B&O tax if the service is performed in Washington. In such cases, the customer's location does not matter.

If services are performed both within and outside the state, the service provider may be able to apportion the income between Washington and the out-of-state location. (For additional information on apportioning, see RCW 82.04.460.)

2 Internet-based businesses located outside of Washington

Out-of-state businesses that sell tangible personal property or perform retail services for Washington residents over the Internet are generally taxable in the same manner as other out-of-state businesses.

A company is subject to taxation in Washington if it:

- 1 Delivers goods to the buyer in Washington, and
- 2 Has a physical presence or "nexus" in Washington.

Nexus is created by any number of activities, including sending a sales representative to Washington, installing items in-state, and using an independent sales representative in Washington to promote products. (See WAC 458-20-193(7) for additional examples of activities.)

Items delivered in Washington from outside the state

If an Internet business located out-of-state has established nexus in Washington, then sales tax must be collected on all sales delivered to customers in Washington. Income from such sales is also subject to retailing B&O tax.

If an out-of-state Internet business does not conduct any nexus-creating activities in this state, then it is not required to obtain a business registration in Washington or to collect or pay Washington taxes.

Services performed outside the state for customers in Washington

If an out-of-state Internet business performs services from a location outside of Washington for a customer located in this state, the income is not subject to Washington taxes to the extent that services are not performed in this state.

Again, if services are performed both within and outside the state, the service provider may be able to apportion the income between Washington and the out-of-state location.

Did you know...

that you may owe litter tax
even if you don't own a cat?

Litter tax is not just a tax on cat litter.

The tax is imposed on various products that are listed in WAC 458-20-243, including grocery products such as cat litter.

Questions and Answers

Q If a retail vendor offers an early payment discount to its customers, should the sales tax be recalculated to reflect the reduced selling price?

A Yes. Early payment discounts ("cash discounts") are less confusing when you remember that Washington law requires sales tax to be calculated on the "selling price." In cases where early payment discounts reduce the selling price by a certain percentage or amount, the sales tax should be recalculated based on the amount actually received by the seller.

To ensure that the correct sales tax is computed on these discounted sales, vendors should provide sales invoices showing the discounted selling price and the sales tax due on the discounted price in addition to the original invoice amount.

For example, the original sale price is $100 with sales tax of $8. The total amount due is $108. The seller offers a two percent discount if the invoice is paid within 10 days. The invoice should also show that, if paid within 10 days, the total amount due is $105.84, (an amount representing the discounted selling price of $98 and sales tax of $7.84 calculated at 8.0 percent on the discounted price).

Q What is use tax and who owes it?

A Use tax is a tax on goods used and certain services provided in Washington when sales tax has not been paid. For example, you would owe use tax if you purchased goods:

- From an out-of-state business via the Internet.
- From a mail-order catalog and the out-of-state business does not collect sales tax.
- In a state with no sales tax or a state with a sales tax lower than Washington's.

Q My fitness business offers Pilates mat classes and one-on-one personal training using specialized Pilates equipment. Should I charge sales tax to my customers?

A Yes, you must charge sales tax to your customers. Businesses that offer exercise classes and personal training in Pilates or other specialized exercise or conditioning activities are providing physical fitness services, a retail activity. Additional examples of specialized exercise or conditioning activities that are subject to sales tax include, but are not limited to, Body Pump, Yoga, aerobics, Jazzercise, and Tai Chi.

For more information on the taxability of such activities, see Excise Tax Advisory 2023.08.183, Physical Fitness Services – Specialized Exercise and Conditioning Activities, issued April 21, 2005.

Washington Tax Decisions

Throughout the year, the Department of Revenue's Appeals division publishes Washington Tax Decisions (WTDs). Published WTDs provide guidance on applications and interpretations of tax statutes, administrative rules, and policies to taxpayers and agency personnel. The cases are sanitized to protect the identities of the taxpayers involved. You can receive notification of newly issued WTDs through our e-mail service, Listserv. For more information on Listserv, go to <http://dor.wa.gov> select Contact Us, then "E-mail" under Contact Us on the left side of the page, then scroll down and click on "Listserv" E-mail Service.
